"Gen Silent", the 2011 critically-acclaimed documentary film, directed and produced by filmmaker Stu Maddux, follows the lives of six LGBT seniors who must decide if they will hide their sexuality in the long-term health care system. Out of fear, both real and perceived, many LGBT seniors delay getting the care they need, leading to poorer health outcomes than their straight counterparts.

"Gen Silent" brilliantly depicts the emotional journey that many LGBT seniors face today, in a compassionate, thoughtprovoking and educational manner. To view the trailer or learn more about "Gen Silent" visit: <https://www.thecrowdgroup.com/gensilent>
